An invitation to become a partner in POAC 2011

The first Conference on Port and Ocean Engineering under Arctic Conditions (POAC) was held in Norway in 1971. Since then, it has been held every 2 years in a different international venue. We are pleased to announce that the 21st International Conference on Port and Ocean Engineering under Arctic Conditions will be held in Montreal, Canada, July 10-14, 2011. The POAC'11 Conference is being organized by the Canadian Hydraulics Centre (CHC) of the National Research Council of Canada.

The Conference will address the unique issues related to coastal and offshore engineering in ice-covered waters. The main objective is to improve the knowledge of ice-related problems by enabling scientists, technologists, and design and development engineers to discuss and exchange ideas on relevant topics. The conference provides a direct link between scientists and designers of Arctic structures and ships by exchanging information on the newest research results and development plans for Arctic activities. The knowledge and experiences presented at the meeting have been typically shared amongst 200 international attendees, including engineers and operational people from the oil and marine transportation industry, and researchers from Institutes, Universities, and Government Departments.

We invite you to become a partner in the POAC'11 Conference. Please take a moment to review the enclosed information on partnership opportunities for the 2011 International Conference on Port and Ocean Engineering under Arctic Conditions.

Don't miss the opportunity to be part of this exciting event!
